

AB Volvo

Press release

Volvo scholarship for research on air pollution

The Håkan Frisinger Foundation for Transportation Research will be awarding the scholarship for 2016 to Professor Louise Olsson at Chalmers University of Technology. Louise Olsson will receive the scholarship of SEK 250,000 for her extensive research on emission cleaning from vehicles using catalysis.

Professor Louise Olsson is Head of the Chemical Engineering division. She has received a number of prestigious awards and grants such as “Distinguishing young researcher” from the Swedish Research Council 2014.

The scholarship will be presented by the Håkan Frisinger Foundation at a seminar on Thursday May 11 at the Chalmerska Huset, Gothenburg. Please note that the seminar will be held entirely in Swedish.

For more information and registration, please contact Moa Persson, +46 729812584, moa.persson@chalmers.se

Volvo Research and Educational Foundations: www.vref.se

Håkan Frisinger was CEO of Volvo in 1983–1987 and Chairman of the Board in 1997–1999. Nomination of recipients of the Frisinger scholarship is conducted by the Chalmers University of Technology and Volvo Research and Educational Foundations (VREF). The decision about the scholarship is made by the Board of VREF.

2017-04-12

Journalists who would like further information, please contact: Katarina Gårdfeldt +46 703317795

VOLVO

AB Volvo

For more stories from the Volvo Group, please visit www.volvogroup.com/press.

The Volvo Group is one of the world's leading manufacturers of trucks, buses, construction equipment and marine and industrial engines. The Group also provides complete solutions for financing and service. The Volvo Group, which employs about 95,000 people, has production facilities in 18 countries and sells its products in more than 190 markets. In 2016 the Volvo Group's sales amounted to about SEK 302 billion (EUR 31,9 billion). The Volvo Group is a publicly-held company headquartered in Göteborg, Sweden. Volvo shares are listed on Nasdaq Stockholm. For more information, please visit www.volvogroup.com.